Klal Yisroel prides itself on it's absolute dedication to look after one another.

This is evidenced in the plethora of Chessed organisations for different niche groups, such as almonos, yesomim, the disabled, those with special medical and educational needs and those with financial pressures, which are dotted around the globe.

Yet one important sector of society has somehow been overlooked or worse, ignored, for much too long.

Divorced men and women and the precious children that they valiantly bring up, for one reason or another just haven't been properly provided for, both in terms of their physical needs and also their emotional ones, whether at the traumatic time of the breakdown of a marriage or in the ongoing aftermath.

Kol hakavod to the dedicated leadership of the organisation Our Kids First who have stepped up to fill this vital need.

I have spoken with them on numerous occasions and can vouch for the well-thought-out and inspirational approach which they take in attending to the urgent needs of this unfortunately large community within our wider community.

May Hashem send hatzlocha to this organisation in the interim period until the day comes that He rebuilds all the Churbanos Yerusholayim and the broken homes scattered amongst our people.
