Kids In MiND

Welcome To KIND!!!

A Kind place where we have kids from all Kinds of Families In Mind.

As a single parent we know you do everything for your child. Your child is well looked after, loved and cared for, often even more so than other children in the class. You will do everything to ensure that he/she never misses out because of their circumstances.

You get him to school in the morning with clean clothes and lovingly packed lunches where he thrives and plays with his friends. The teachers tell you he's doing just fine under the circumstances and secretly you're quite proud and happy to take the credit at the amazing job you've done bringing him up on your own..and so you should be!!

But...there is that one thing...every so often you notice that sad look in his eyes and you just know...hes been triggered....

Whether it was a teacher simply talking about the Shabbos meal where Daddy makes kiddush or when his friend asks which home hes sleeping in that night...

Nobody means to harm, they often don't even know they have done so.....but your son now feels different...

He knows he is loved and cared for and he knows its not his fault and sometimes he even knows it was for his best interest...but he stil doesnt feel quite like everyone else in his class...

So imagine he walks into a room full of children just like him who also dont have the typical family set up..."WOW Im not the only one" he thinks!!! Imagine what that does for him!!!

and there you have our Introduction!!!!

Welcome to KIND!!!!!!

We know that in the frum community many of these gorgeous kids do not come into contact with other kids just like them! Sometimes they may be the only child in the whole class who dont live with Mum and Dad.

KIND will be a place where kids can meet other kids and forge friendships making connections that will also help them in time to feel more confident about their situation.
